SJC From 1938 -1951

Fr. Dirksen Supervised Expansion

Saint Joseph's history from 1938-51 is detailed below in this continuing series of Bicentennial features. The article was researched by Father Dominic Gerlach, associate professor of history, and written by Charles J. Schuttrow, Director of Public Information.

Saint Joseph's growth can be measured in many ways, and during the 1938-44 presidency of Father Aloys Dirksen, the school witnessed six of the most progressive years in its history.

Heading the list of milestones were completion of an ambitious building plan, development of a widely-recognized sports program, admission of the first non-Catholic day students, growth in campus publications and reaching of all-time highs in enrollment and faculty.

A native of Egypt, Ohio, Father Dirksen's father, Frank, was a member of the opening class of students at Saint Joseph's in 1891. Father Dirksen entered the Society of the Precious Blood in 1913 and studied at SJC during 1914-20. Ordained six years later, he taught at Collegeville one year before entering Catholic University in 1927 to earn a doctor's degree in sacred theology.

Father Dirksen taught sacred scripture at Saint Charles Seminary in Carthage, Ohio, during 1931-38 before assuming Saint Joseph's presidency. An aggressive, outspoken person, Father Dirksen moved the school's expansion program into high gear, aided by solid backing from the Society's Provincial, Father Joseph Marling (later Bishop Marling).

Most apparent in Saint Joseph's expansion was the building program, starting with Seifert Hall—begun in the summer of 1939 and dedicated Oct. 29, 1939. In 1940, three more buildings were started: the fieldhouse, Xavier Hall and Merlini (then called Noll) Hall.

Such new construction meant a sizeable debt, underwritten by the Society. But the C.P.P.S. hoped that rising enrollments in two or three years would help liquidate this.

Overall, the expansion called for facilities for 380 college students, 125 high school students and 85 Society students. Meanwhile, a white frame building standing where Merlini Hall now does came down—it dated back to the time of the orphanage before the college was established.

Xavier Hall was reserved for seminarians, helping to meet a desire that Society seminarians be segregated taught on the Notre Dame theological faculty (1947-50) and at Saint Charles Seminary (1950-56). Meanwhile he published his LIFE OF CHRIST in 1952, then published ELEMENTARY PATROLOGY in 1959.

He returned to Saint Joseph's from 1966-63 as a member of the theology faculty.

World War II forced several lean years upon Saint Joseph's College, but the expansion witnessed at Collegeville just before hostilities broke out resumed soon after the return of peace.

Directing this resumption of college growth was Father Henry Lucks, the school's tenth president. A native of Nebraska, he first came to Saint Joseph's as a student during 1915-21, and was ordained at Carthage in May, 1927.

FATHER ALOYS DIRKSEN

FATHER HENRY LUCKS

After teaching at Collegeville for six years, he entered Catholic University in Washington, D.C., where he earned master's and doctor's degrees in philosophy. In the fall of 1936 he returned to SJC to teach, then became dean of studies in 1937. He was named president in 1944, a position he held for four years.

Still trying to make ends meet as World War II continued, the college became the summer training

Another first came June 28, 1948, with the appearance of nuns for summer school sessions. Many of them still lacked an A.B. degree and the college offered them what was then considered an ideal educational atmosphere—a degree of segregation, a campus life, and an accomplished theological faculty.

Failing health forced Father Lucks to resign in September, 1948, but he continued teaching, beginning with the spring semester at Saint Charles Seminary in February, 1949.

The college continued its post-war growth during 1948-51 under the leadership of Father Alfred Zanolar, a LaPorte, Ind., native who first came to Collegeville as a student during 1925-27.

Ordained May 14, 1933, at the age of 24 at Saint Charles Seminary in Carthage, Ohio, he was admired by his fellow students for finding studies very easy, and later as a professor he had the reputation of racing through even the most difficult mathematics problems.

Following ordination, he attended the Catholic University of America (Washington, D.C.) where he gained a master's degree in mathematics in the spring of 1935.

He subsequently taught 15 years on Saint Joseph's faculty, while leaving the school during several summers to attend courses at the University of Chicago.

His three-year term as Saint Joseph's president began Sept. 22, 1948, and covered several important developments on the campus.

Widespread attention was focused on the college Oct. 16, 1948, when Republican presidential candidate Gov. Thomas E. Dewey came to a political rally in the fieldhouse to address a crowd of approximately 7000 people. Meanwhile, additional administrative duties were lifted from the shoulders of the president.

On Nov. 4, 1948, for example, a separate man (Father Charles Herber) was made religious superior over the priests and brothers. Still more important was Mar. 22, 1950, when the college received North Central accreditation. This required much work and was a special achievement of Father Walter Pax, Dean of Studies.

Minor campus changes include the laundry facilities being leased to Peerless Cleaners of Rensselaer; until 1950 the Precious Blood Sisters had operated the laundry in addition to their duties in the kitchen and dining rooms. Also in the summer of 1950 the present bleachers seating 1100 were erected at the football field.

Saint Joseph's governing structure continued to grow and change, evident in the organization of a Board of Lay Trustees. The group's first meeting was held Dec. 8, 1950.

On May 10, 1959, Father Zanolar resigned, and the following fall he assumed a new assignment as the first novice master of the canonical novitiate year of the Precious Blood Society's students.

LAY TRUSTEES BEGUN WITH FATHER ZANOLAR

He held this post until 1953, when he became rector of Brunnerdale Seminary at Canton, Ohio, for one year. Thereafter he retired from school work and took a chaplaincy with the Sisters of Notre Dame at Milwaukee, Wis.

A deeply religious, intense and energetic man, Father Zanolar enjoyed an excellent reputation with the sisters as their chaplain.

FREIMANN TRUST GRANT

Trustees of the Frank Freimann Charitable Trust informed Saint Joseph's College on Nov. 9, 1976, that it will make a $100,000 gift over five years if this is annually matched two for one. It is noted that the gift is a challenge for alumni and friends to increase support of the Annual Fund. A total of $40,000 increased gifts from supporters of the college will assure an annual $20,000 from the Trust. Alumni and friends were offered this challenge in the annual fund solicitation this Christmas.

"The Frank Freimann Trust gift underlines the continuing need for gifts for operations. Our alumni and friends have been generous, and we hope that more of them will rise to this kind of challenge. Both the short-range and long-range health of the college is served by unrestricted annual giving," says SJC President Father Charles Banet in announcing the challenge gift.

VETERANS' POST-WAR ENROLLMENT BOOSTED SJC POPULATION UNDER FATHER LUCKS, SCHOOL'S TENTH PRESIDENT

from the other students. Father Dirksen, in fact, had hoped that Xavier could have been made larger to serve as a community house like Schwieterman does today—housing priests, brothers, and Society students.

Removal of the seminarians from the Ad Building allowed more room for the high school department, which was housed there. The college students were to occupy Seifert, Drexel, Merlini and Gaspar, while the priest faculty moved from Gaspar to the third floor of the Ad Building.

Science Hall's south end became the site of the library, where it was relocated from the third floor north Science Hall to escape music disturbances. A new AC current electric generator was installed in the powerhouse to generate SJC's electricity; it replaced the DC generator operative there since 1923.

Student recruitment was improving during these facility changes, and on Apr. 30, 1941, Bishop Noll was present to bless Merlini Hall ("Noll Hall" then) and Xavier. The college observed its golden jubilee in June, 1941, and the fieldhouse was dedicated Dec. 8, 1941, the day after Pearl Harbor was bombed.

In addition to building, Father Dirksen advanced the college on other fronts. In athletics, Joseph Dienhart was hired as a coach in the summer of 1938 and unprecedented football and basketball success followed during 1938-42.

Non-Catholic day students were first admitted Jan. 3, 1939, a major change in light of emphasis on SJC being an "exclusively Catholic" school. Campus publications were expanded with the start of the alumni newspaper CONTACT under Father Sylvester Ley on Mar. 1, 1939, then in 1941 the first issue of PHASE, the college yearbook, was published.

Moreover, by September, 1941, the enrollment had reached a new high of 456 and the faculty was the largest ever, 51.

But then came World War II, and its impact was readily felt at the college. In 1942, the first summer term was announced, a program that allowed not only the college students to graduate in three years, but also admitted high school students in the middle of their senior year.

Due to the war, enrollment suffered with student population down to 92 (including 42 seminarians) by the fall of 1943. The new class of 22 lay freshmen compared with 200 the previous year.

A highly-respected scholar, Father Dirksen retired from Saint Joseph's on May 21, 1944, and subsequently camp of football's Chicago Bears in the summer of 1944. Meanwhile, increased effort was made to recruit high school students in lieu of the fallen college enrollment.

Sept. 25, 1944, marked an important date for the college—at this time SJC was approved to participate in the G.I. Bill of Rights for college education. In the summer of 1945, the college hosted the first retreat for priests of the newly-formed Diocese of Lafayette, and that same summer sulphur-free water was secured with the digging of new wells near the gravel pits, eliminating the unpleasant odor created by the college fountain.

In the fall of 1945 it was announced that the college would abandon its high school division; it would be discontinued after the current 250 high school students already enrolled could graduate. By the second semester of 1945-46, the first group of 59 veterans enrolled, increasing student population to 139.

Anticipating such growth, the summer of 1946 saw the library expanded northward through the old gym space to approximately its current extent. Likewise the dining room below the chapel was converted to cafeteria style as opposed to the older family style with tablecloths, and a professional dietician was hired.

Retreats for groups such as the Christian Brothers and Alcoholics Anonymous expanded use of the campus during the summer of 1946, and at the same time extensive improvements were made with enrollment expected to jump to 600 in the fall.

When September arrived, 615 students enrolled, including 514 secular college students, 329 of them ex-GI's, 323 freshmen. To add income, Joseph Critser was given a lease on the gravel pit area.

Further improvements came with the summer of 1947, most important and obvious being the building of Raleigh Hall as a recreational center and the renovation of the Ad Building basement into student rooms. The high school also ended in 1947.

Saint Joseph's received wide coverage on Apr. 15, 1948, when it granted an honorary doctor of laws degree to radio entertainers James E. Jordan and Marian Jordan, better known as Fibber McGee and Molly.

They had been honored because a poll among students at Saint Joseph's and 180 other Catholic colleges rated them the top radio performers in terms of entertainment value. Bob Hope finished dead last in the same poll.

Christmas 1976

Dear Alumni,

At this time of the year we rightly focus our attention on the Christmas story - a story that tells of God's love in images of poverty and peace. And this year, like other years, we try to learn the lesson one more time. We aren't trying to distract ourselves from the distressing realities of a world in which there is famine and wars, violations of human rights, even of the helpless unborn - all of these continue to mark our daily lives.

Isaiah taught that David's final successor would introduce the brightness of freedom and favor where, before, there had been political and spiritual darkness. "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light. Upon those who dwelt in the land of gloom a light has shown." (Is 9:1) Jesus said "I am the light of the world. No follower of me shall ever walk in darkness." (Jn 8:12)

To remind us that Jesus is the light, Christmas time shines in light. This probably explains best why Christmas is a favorite, if not the principal, feast in the whole year. "Son of God, love's pure light" we sing. God, in His Son, Jesus, embraces this world. Not just those things that are pleasant, but the whole lot - even those things warped and dented by our sins.

If we can remain undistracted by the lights and pleasures, perhaps we can view the Christmas crib as a symbol of God's own commitment - from the stable to the cross - and see again just how lovable God thinks we are. Maybe we can see things in this light and recommit ourselves to living with and for others in the freedom and unity which Jesus brought and brings.

Women's Sports On Upswing At Saint Joseph's

Saint Joseph's women's volleyball team has concluded its season with a 10-14 overall record, highlighted by a victory over Notre Dame.

"The team was much stronger this year than last year, and with more new freshmen coming in and with the return of many of our present squad members, we should be a stronger team next year; we are looking forward to next season," adds Miss Rosalie Wendling, the team's coach.

Dave Smith, women's head basketball coach, greeted 25 team candidates at the beginning of women's basketball practice Nov. 29. The women will conclude pre-season practice Jan. 7 in preparation for their 1976-77 season-opening game at Huntington Jan. 8.

The women's basketball schedule follows:

Jan. 8—at Huntington
Jan. 11—PURDUE-CALUMET
Jan. 12—ST. FRANCIS
Jan. 22—at Indiana Tech (Fort Wayne)
Jan. 25—NOTRE DAME
Jan. 28—VALPARAISO
Jan. 29—at Purdue-Calumet
Feb. 4—at Bethel
Feb. 5—Northern Illinois (at Notre Dame)
Feb. 11—INDIANA TECH
Feb. 12—at Grace
Feb. 15—at St. Francis (Fort Wayne)
Feb. 17—ANDERSON
Feb. 19—BUTLER
Feb. 22—at IUPUI (Indianapolis)
Feb. 25—26 IWISO TOURNEY (Site not yet named)

Pumas share '76 ICC Football Title — Jennings named Coach-of-the-Year — The 1976 Saint Joseph's College football team compiled a 6-3 overall season record, and a 4-1 Indiana Collegiate Conference record. The Pumas ranked eighth in the nation after the sixth week of the season in the N.C.A.A. Division III standings, and were crowned ICC co-champions with the University of Evansville. In addition, head coach Bill Jennings was selected ICC Coach-of-the-Year by his fellow coaching peers.

Jerry Lasko, '70, Promoted To Alumni Director

Father Sante J. Reale has been named Director of Development for Deferred Giving, Estates and Wills and Gerald R. Lasko has been named Executive Director of the Alumni Association here at Saint Joseph's College.

In making the joint announcement, college President Father Charles Banet adds that Father Reale will work directly under the office of the president and Lasko will continue in his duties as a part-time assistant coach of football.

"This is a most important area in college development and I view my duties as a splendid opportunity to promote Saint Joseph's among persons wishing to remember the college in their wills and estates," Father Reale says.

A 43-year-old native of Canton, Ohio, Father Reale first came to Saint Joseph's as a student during 1951-53. He earned a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy from the University of Dayton in 1956 and studied from 1954-60 at Saint Charles Seminary in Carthagen, Ohio, where he was ordained May 28, 1960.

He joined Saint Joseph's staff in the summer of 1969 following pastoral duties during 1966-69 at St. Augustine Parish in Rensselaer. He previously served pastorates in Cleveland, Ohio and Centerville, Iowa.

Lasko, a 29-year-old native of Westlake, Ohio, has been assistant director of the Alumni Association since joining the college staff in August, 1975. He is a 1970 graduate of Saint Joseph's with a bachelor's degree in physical education.

Jerry Lasko, '70, being congratulated by Fr. Sante Reale on becoming Saint Joseph's Alumni Director.

He coached at Fort Wayne (Ind.) Central Catholic High School during 1970-71, at Indiana State University in 1972-73 and at Sullivan (Ind.) High School in 1974. He earned a master's degree in physical education from Indiana State in 1973.

"I look upon my promotion much as I do my coaching philosophy; that of meeting a new challenge at one's position by concentrating on first the individual and then coordinating this effort into a team effort which can be reflected in my new position associating with the SJC student, graduate, and community," Lasko says.

Father Banet commented that in this new assignment, Lasko will not work with fund raising, which is assigned to the office of development. Lasko will coordinate the many other programs of the alumni, working closely with the Alumni Board of Directors.

SJC Basketball Season Off To Fast Start

A new coach, a new season, and the first 27-game slate in school history are features of the 1976-77 SJC basketball schedule.

George Waggoner welcomes the return of seven lettermen in his initial year as head basketball coach of the Pumas. Fifteen road games will take the Pumas as far west as Montana and as far east as West Virginia in first-ever matches with Eastern Montana, Montana State and the University of West Virginia.

Dear Saint Joseph's College Alumni:

SJC seniors are eager to begin their search for jobs. The students whose names are below would like the help of the alumni association to learn of possible job openings.

If you know of an opening for one of these students or if you could give the time to talk with one about your own profession, please contact the Placement Office.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jim Madden
